

Every once in a great while, we here at Dada enjoy heading to a local watering hole to enjoy a tasty, cold beverage. And we couldn't help but notice lately an influx of new folks at the bars, many wearing shirts with Greek letters on them or dropping words like "weltanschauung" into casual conversation. This can only mean one thing. The out-of-town college kids are home for the summer!

Maybe you're one of them. Or maybe you know one-- your own kid, your neighbor, that kid you went to high school with. And we bet they are looking for something fun and exciting to do to remind them how rockin' their hometown is. We've got the perfect suggestion: take them to a Something Dada show! You can support local, independent comedy, show your co-ed a good time, and laugh yourself silly in the process. Now that's a deal.

And if you or your pal has a college ID-- you're doubly in luck! If you come to this Thursday's show at The Historic Centrum in Cleveland Heights, you can get a discounted ticket with a valid college ID. Which means more money leftover for beer. Which we here at Dada have also been known to enjoy, on rare occasion.

Something Dada strongly suggests not bringing children under 13 to our shows. We generally operate at a PG-13 level, in terms of language and content, but we can not guarantee what suggestions will be given, or what direction the show will take (it is improv, after all).
