Something Dada Realizes It's Cold Outside, Announces New Winter Schedule

Cleveland: Something Dada Improvisational Comedy Company may be full of funny folks, but we're no fools. We know where Jack Frost is nip nip nipping, and we're donning our metaphorical mufflers accordingly.

Starting on Saturday December 13, Something Dada will be operating under a new performance schedule. We'll be performing every Friday night at 8:00 and every Saturday night at 8:00. That's two opportunities, every week, for audience members to come in from the cold and let us kindle the flames of funny, with our signature brand of fast-paced, in-your-face, audience-suggestion-based improv comedy. In honor of the new performance schedule, Something Dada will be offering $8 tickets to all Saturday shows in December.

Something Dada is Cleveland's premier improvisational comedy company, and they have been making Clevelanders laugh for more than 14 years. All Something Dada shows are based completely on audience suggestions, meaning no two shows are ever the same.

Something Dada performs every Friday and Saturday at 8:00 p.m. in The Wooltex Gallery at The Tower Press Building, at 1900 Superior Avenue, Cleveland. There is ample free parking, both in a lot behind the building and on-street. Tickets are $10. For reservations, to pre-purchase tickets or for more information, visit www.somethingdada.com or call 216.696.4242.
